

HP and Logix confirm VMware training agreement

Logix and HP have entered a collaboration agreement around VMware Technical Trainings since May 2008 and will continue to do so. With Logix delivering VMware Certified Trainers and HP holding the global VATC agreement, we achieve a perfect win-win for both companies. Logix operates as a sub-VATC Site covered by the HP VATC agreement with VMware, which means that Logix uses original VMware training material.

All VMware related courses published on the website of Logix <http://www.logix.be/training> enter into this agreement and entitles attendees to the VMware Certification paths like VCP and/or VCDX. More details about certification can be found on <http://www.vmware.com/certification>.
